APPENDIX A

- Where Single Transferrable Voting is used, the following method will apply:
- The number of votes needed to win is determined by the following equation: $(x / y + 1) + 1$, where x is equal to the number of valid votes cast, and y is equal to the number of seats to be filled. Where the quota is not an integer, it is rounded up.
- The election proceeds through a series of rounds
 - Any candidates who receive sufficient first preference votes to meet or exceed the required number of votes are elected
 - If after counting all of the first preference votes candidates remain to be elected,
 - The second preferences of the candidate with the least amount of first preference votes are re-allocated to the remaining unelected candidates.
 - If the number of votes received by the elected candidate exceeds the number of votes required for election, the surplus votes are re-allocated to the second preferences of the winning candidate's voters, in proportion to that candidate's voters' second choice preferences
 - This method will continue until the required number of candidates reach the required number of votes.
